Give Me Some Attitude

By Rev. Dean Koyama

Things are preceded by the mind,
Ruled by the mind
Made of the mind
If you speak or act with a corrupted mind,
Then suffering follows as the wheel follows the foot of the ox that draws the carriage.

Things are preceded by the mind,
Ruled by the mind
Made of the mind
If you speak or act with a calm, bright mind,
Then happiness follows like a shadow that never leaves.

April is notable because of the important religious observance of Hanamatsuri. Hanamatsuri is the birthday of Prince Siddhartha Gautama who became the historical Sakyamuni Buddha. His awareness of life, captured as the teachings or Dharma, is what we try to follow on our own path towards enlightenment.

Speak or act with a

CALM, BRIGHT MIND

The introductory quote is from the 1st chapter of the Dhamapada, and is called the twin verses. The Dhamapada is believed to contain the sermons of the Buddha, collected by his students shortly after his death. While there are many subsequent Buddhist teachings, the Dhamapada is as close to "The Source" as Buddhists believe we can get. These two verses so eloquently illustrate how attitude makes a big difference in our lives.

Surf the Internet, and you'll quickly find a number of stories reflecting this same teaching.

Message from Bob Imai, MVBT Temple President

By Bob Imai

I attended the 2012 BCA National Council Meeting, Feb 23-25 with Rev. Koyama, Glenn Kitasoe (MVBT Recent Past President), Richard Endo (BCA Treasurer), Kevin Arakaki (BCA Interim Office Administrator), Hiroji Kariya (MVBT Booster), and Dennis Tsukagawa (MVBT Booster).

The BCA National Council Meeting is the an annual meeting of all the BCA minister and BCA Temple/Church representatives. It was hosted by the Northern California District at the Doubletree Hotel in Sacramento.

Similar to the MVBT Annual meeting, the BCA National Council goes through a review of the BCA Headquarter departments: Budget & Finance, Ministers' Association, Institute of Buddhist Studies, Endowment, Center for Buddhist Education, Campaign Committee, Affiliated Organizations, District Reports and Committee Reports.

The March issue of the "Wheel of Dharma" includes a very good article on the 2012 BCA National Council Meeting. I wanted to add just a few of my thoughts and observations:

E-Waste Fundraiser & Bay District VB Tournament Coming Up

On March 10th, we sent 14 members to the Bay District Conference. We learned of the Buddhism that was interwoven in the popular Star Wars Saga. Workshops, lectures, and activities were all part of the fun and exciting experience of the conference.

Our chapter performed Don't Stop Believing by Journey during the talent show portion of the conference and we won 2nd place! A nice victory to top off a very fun weekend.

Looking ahead in the month of April, we will be having an E-Waste fundraiser on April 7th. Come out and support the YBA while getting some Spring Cleaning done by getting rid of your old electronics! Come by any time from 9AM to 3PM.

In May, our chapter is planning on participating in the Bay District Volleyball tournament. This is an event that our chapter always looks forward to and we usually do very well, winning first place consecutively for the past several years! We hope to continue our win streak this year. Wish us luck!

Thomas Koyama
YBA President 2011-2012

For example, a businessman goes into a convenience store to pick up a newspaper and some gum. The young girl at the checkout stand is very cheerful and engaging.

She jokes with the businessman, saying that newspaper and gum cost $10. When the businessman looked up to question her, she has a big smile on her face and says, "Gotcha!" And they both share a laugh and a simple conversation.

The businessman leaves, lighter in step, and grateful for the feeling of connecting with someone who is happy to be alive.

The following day, the businessman returns to the same convenience store, remembering the pleasant experience of the day before. However, at the checkout, the clerk was a different young lady.

She didn't look up, didn't smile and didn't say a word. She just took his money, gave him his change and yelled, "Next!" The businessman leaves, world-weary.

Here were two people about the same age, in the same location, and basically doing the same work. But their attitudes were completely different. One made the businessman feel good; the other made him feel like he had inconvenienced her by the businessman's mere presence.

More personally, when I first went to Japan to study, usually I went out to eat at various small Mom & Pop diners called shokudo. One particular diner, Asahi-tei, was located right around the corner from the dormitory. They had the best looking and best tasting Saba sushi I have ever had.

Because I was new to Japan and couldn't speak Japanese, I didn't like going to the same place too often because I was afraid that the people in the restaurant would start to try talking to me. I had eaten at Asahi-tei maybe two or three times.

When Linda joined me, I moved into an apartment on the other side of Kyoto. About six months after I had last been to the restaurant, Linda and I were running errands and happened to be nearby. I suggested that we go to Asahi-tei.

As soon as I walked in, the lady of the restaurant yells out, "Koyama-san, maido o-kini. Ara, okusan desu ka? Bijin da na!"

"Mr. Koyama, thank you always for your patronage. Oh, is this your wife? She is beautiful."

I was amazed. I had only been in the shop a couple of times at most. They had not only remembered my name but were thanking me for always coming to their shop. To top it off they were complimenting me on having such a beautiful wife. They made me want to go to their restaurant more often.

What a contrast to our Southern California vacation from a number of years ago. We were at a beach on a very hot and sunny day, and decided to get something to drink. I spotted a snack booth where about 5 people were ahead of us.

The person directly ahead of us ordered a Coke and a 7-Up. The girl working at the snack booth moved slowly, with no consideration or sense of urgency to the line of waiting customers.

She put one cup under the Coke spout, filled it, stood waiting for the foam to go down, then filled it to the top. Only after the first cup was full did she put the second cup under the 7-Up spout. After repeating the exact same process, she walked back to the window, collected the money and then barked at me, "What do ya want?"

These stories are very similar to the others that have been emailed to me. Someone once said, "It is not what you say that people will remember about you, it is how you make them feel."

In the incidents of the second clerk and the businessman, and my own experience at the beach, it was obvious that neither wanted to be there. It was just dull and boring work. Their body language reflected it, and their minds and attitude showed it. They are the examples of the 1st verse of the Dhamapada.

But the first clerk treated the businessman as if he were the only ones that mattered. With a caring mind and heart, she took care of his simple needs, yet engaged him personally as well. She made a connection to his life. This is an example of the 2nd verse of the Dhamapada.

William James, the early 20th century American psychologist and philosopher, over a century ago, said, "The greatest discovery of this generation is that a human being can alter their life by altering their attitude."

The choices we make and the attitudes we exhibit influence lives every day, in positive or negative ways. The most important part of our Golden Chain reads: "… knowing that my actions will result in not only my happiness or unhappiness, but also the happiness or unhappiness of others as well."

Buddhism teaches us to be mindful of our feelings, actions and thoughts; to try to be aware that often times it is our own selves that create our own sufferings and unhappiness. This is something very difficult to do, but guided by the teachings of the Buddha we can begin to see ourselves as we really are, and then we may find that our attitude can transform our lives reflecting a sense of appreciation and joy. I think this is one of the valuable lessons that we should reflect upon marking the birthday of Prince Siddhartha.

Gassho,

Rev. Dean

Buddhism teaches us to be mindful of our feelings actions and thoughts

First, Reverend Kodo Umezu is ratified as the Bishop of Buddhist Churches of America (BCA) and will take office April 1, 2012.

The Proclamation of Accession Service and Ceremony for Rev. Kodo Umezu as the next Bishop of the BCA will be held on Saturday, June 2, 2012 at the Buddhist Church of San Francisco. Following the Ceremony a combined Celebration and Testimonial Banquet for Bishop Kodo Umezu and Socho Koshin Ogui will be held at the Hotel Kabuki in San Francisco's Japantown.

Second, Richard Endo steps down as the BCA Treasurer, but is elected as a Director-at-Large (DAL). Congratulations Rich.

Third, Socho Koshin Ogui and Reverend George Eishin Shibata announced their retirement.

Fourth, the Jodo Shinshu Center is five years old. WOW! How time flies. On the financial front we still owe about $2.6 million to California Bank & Trust and about $3.5 million to the BCA Endowment Foundation.

Finally, I was very impressed with the Youth Minister's Assistants Program and the Youth Advocacy Program (YAC). We have some very exceptional young leaders and the BCA hope for the future looks very bright.

Miroku | Middle School Youth Group Update

middle school group

The Miroku meeting was held on 2/11 with 14 members and 3 Advisors. The meeting opened with an Ice Breaker. Members introduced the person next to them using a Buddhist word that started with the initial of their first name. (i.e. David– Dharma)

Next, they held a Group Activity to illustrate that Buddhism is everywhere—TV shows, movies, and the music. Members divided into 4 smaller groups to convert a song into a Buddhist song, and then present it to the entire group.

Everyone presented highly creative, imaginative, and well performed songs. Group 1 sang to "Dynamite" by Taio Cruz. Group 2 danced to "Wavin' Flag" by K'Naan. Group 3 sang to "Born This Way" by Lady Gaga. Finally, Group 4 sang to "Lazy Song" by Bruno Mars.
